

Setup of Forexbody EA

We made setting this EA very simple. First a user must understand that Auto trading Forex software require Metatrader Trading platform which is available from brokers. We provide links to download some of the popular Metatrader 4 platforms inside our EA installer. to download one of these platforms just click on broker's name and save the file. After saving the file to your disk you need to install it. Visit this Mt4 Tutorial website for details on Mt4 basic use. and here is another site listing many other broker mt4 direct downloads.

Download Forexbody Installer from the download page provided to you upon your download request and double click the file. Follow the simple steps in the installer.

For paid users we offer remote support: Please check support tab for information.

Upon downloading and running the installer it will look as the image shown below: on setup tab, You need to click the COPY button and the black screen on the button will light up green when the files are available. Now you need to click on the green square to pop up 3 folders that you need to copy manually to your Mt4 directory.

Forexbody Setup

When you click on the green square, the 3 folders shown below will pop up in Windows explorer, You must highlight all 3 folders and copy to all your Mt4 directories that you to use the EA on for automated trading.

Click on white area and drag over the 3 folders to highlight in order to copy to your Mt4 directory. Do same for other Mt4 platforms you use on your computer.

To locate your directory for any Mt4 just right click on its shortcut and select Properties, in the properties pop up select Find Target. once there click on a blank area inside the folder and paste. If receive Folder replacement confirmation, you must choose copy and replace.

Start your Mt4 and on EURUSD chart, right click on the chart and go to templates >> and select the latest Forexbody template.

At this point the EA should pop up Access Code request, click on registration tab in the installer and provide your info to obtain code. as shown below:

registration is mandatory for all users, and only one registration is allowed per user. The code will be available immediately and sent via email. insure you provide the correct email address. You will need the same code for any of your 3 computers you are authorized to use EA on. Use copy and past when dealing with this to avoid typing errors. The form below is just an image and the actual form is in the installer as shown.

In order to access EA settings window Right click on chart that has EA on it and Right click anywhere on the chart. 2nd in list you will see Expert advisors > Properties.

Please note that EA will not display anything unless the market is open.

So setup should be done during the week not weekends.

Switch your chart to 1M time frame. Finally restart your Mt4 to insure your changes are saved, because if Mt4 stops or power goes down non of you changes will be found unless Mt4 is exited properly after changes.

Mt4 changes are saved at exit.

When the EA is properly setup it should display Link and current Bid and Ask prices on the bottom left of the chart. Also the correct GMT time on the top right of your chart. as shown.

The entire process is a whole lot easier done than said, for future updates the process is exactly the same like first time setup. The EA will let you know once there is a newer version available for download if you have version 4.04 or later already on your setup. It will let you know by displaying a message for few minutes and another message on your Mt4 journal tab. Please visit our Mt4 Back Testing Website for back testing instructions.
